Its sleek base design, modern appearance, shining and reflectivity is made by using high gloss lacquer and on the top uses high gloss walnut. High gloss lacquer is different from other types of lacquer; it has a very high level of shine and reflectivity. This is achieved by a high volume of solids and a low volume of solvent in the lacquer formula, which helps to create a thicker, more reflective finish. High gloss lacquer is also typically very smooth and hard, which helps to protect the surface from scratches and other types of damage.

In general, high glass lacquer is used when a sleek, modern appearance is desired. It is often used on furniture, cabinetry and other decorative items and it is popular in both residential and commercial settings.

Two square shaped woods one on the top and another up to the bottom are held together by a solid polished bronze spine and it has been welded to provide support. The color contrast acts as a harmonious synergy.
